I have the honour to be,

for Librarian.

Museum.

GENTLEMEN,

There is little fresh to report this year from this department.

Specimens from the collection have been utilised to the full for the purposes of teaching and examination.

Specimens borrowed for examinations in Surgery numbered 28, in Medicine 18, in Gynæcology 6.

The Curator made use of a large number in examinations for the Final Fellowship, for the Membership of the Royal College of Physicians, for the Diploma in Child Health; as well as in the Conjoint Examinations. The numbers used for demonstration during the regular lectures in Pathology from October to May ran into hundreds.

The Curator would thank the Council for the interest they take in the department, especially in the matter of lighting. The new arrangements will add greatly to its comfort and efficiency.

Our principal desideratum still is fresh material of surgical interest.

Practically all the material is derived from a single source and is mainly of "medical" interest. We receive little of a gynæcological nature, and only by accident anything fresh that is of interest to Surgeons. Any material of this character would be gratefully accepted, and gladly sent for.

I remain, Gentlemen,

Your obedient Servant,

WILLIAM BOXWELL.
